

TRU Library Makerspace Code of Conduct

- The Makerspace is for current TRU students, staff, and faculty.
- The Makerspace is a place of learning and is designed for all users, from beginners to experts. Sometimes things will not work and that's okay.
- Discrimination and threatening, harassing, or bullying language or behaviour will not be tolerated.

Makerspace users will:

- Follow all guidelines and directions from Makerspace staff.
- Treat staff and other users respectfully.
- Treat equipment with respect and work with staff to resolve any issues.
- Be good stewards of the environment and conscious of material use.
- Clean up after themselves and return spaces, equipment, and software to its original state.
- Be courteous of those working nearby and others waiting to use the spaces and equipment.
- Not eat food in the Makerspace except during designated events. Drinks in closed containers are okay.
